

10 G.O.P. DELEGATES ARE AGREED UPON

Penrose, Knox, Sprull and Moore Among Those Who Will Attend Convention

GEN. PRICE IS MENTIONED

Following a conference between Senator Penrose and W. Harry Baker, secretary of the Republican state committee, it was learned today that the following have been tentatively agreed upon to be supported for delegates-at-large to the national Republican convention:

Senator Penrose, Senator Knox, Governor Sprull, State Chairman William E. Crow, Mayor E. V. Babcock, of Pittsburgh; Mayor Moore, of Philadelphia; J. Leonard Neplige, of Johnstown; Colonel James Elverson, Jr., of Delaware county, and A. W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh.

There are twelve delegates-at-large to be elected, and for the other places among others being discussed are for: Rice, of Warren county; Major General William C. Price, of Delaware county; Mayor Connell, of Scranton, and General H. C. Trecker, of Altoona.

It is probable that an agreement upon a complete ticket will not be reached for a week or more.

There has been talk of the Penrose contingent dropping Burke, who has sided with the Vire combination. Within the last week, however, there have been suggestions of a probable change under which all of the present congressmen-at-large would be supported for re-nomination.

There is also a move to have Garland run as a district candidate to defeat Congressman M. Clyde Kelly, in Allegheny county, but Garland's inclination is to stay in the field as a candidate for congressmen-at-large.

Former Congressman Joseph McLaughlin, of this city, former Senator Frank P. Croft, of Montgomery county, and Major General Charles M. Clement, of Northumberland, are among others proposed for congressmen-at-large.

MAYOR APPROVES RAISING FUND FOR "WHISTLING COP"

Will Call Meeting Next Week to Arouse Interest in Permanent Plan to Care for Patrolmen's Kin

"Mathew Kernan was a faithful and good servant of the public, and I am glad to find so many Philadelphians interested in the welfare of his widow and children. He leaves a deserving family, and I heartily approve of the raising of a fund to aid them."

Mayor Moore expects to call a meeting of prominent citizens in his office the latter part of next week to arouse public interest in the helping of widows and orphans of patrolmen. His hope is to develop some independent organization or fund to care for such dependents, and to provide for the education of the children. In the meantime, he believes immediate financial aid would be welcome to Mrs. Kernan.

Superintendent of Police Robinson also expressed his approval of a fund for the Kernan family, as well as an illustration of the many similar cases. It is deplorable that the families of men who have given years of faithful service to the public should be forgotten and neglected after the father's death.

"Two other patrolmen died the same day," Kernan died," he said. "That makes four deaths this month from natural causes. In such cases the families receive about $2000 insurance from the Police's Insurance Association, but there is no pension except those cases where the patrolman was killed or disabled in service, and even then the amount is not enough to provide maintenance for an entire family."

There should be some way of signifying special acts of bravery and courage done in service, and these should be a system whereby those dependents upon the patrolman could be more substantially provided for upon his death. It is terrible to leave a widow and children to the charity of relatives or friends, who may already be overburdened.

"The police would give us better service if we showed them they were not mere political puppets, to be kicked from pillar to post at the whim of a boss. We should recognize them as human beings and men with their own pride."

There is one man just as bad as the masher and slashers—and he is the auto splasher, and he rises through them viciously.

All of which goes to show there is a very practical reason for keeping the streets clean.

$13,000 for Boy Scouts The Rotary Club drive in behalf of Camden county Boy Scouts has thus far resulted in the raising of $13,000. This was reported at the tenth annual dinner of the Scouts last night by William Strandwitz, president of the Camden county council of the Scouts. At the banquet, assurance was given the Scouts that by next summer they will have four acres of playground along a stream, with a log cabin to house them.

A. M. Cobb, assistant general manager of the Pusey & Jones concern, said today he had heard nothing officially of the reported sale. Officials at the plant in the Baltimore concern submitted the report and announced that the company would take over the Gloucester shipyard as soon as Christian Hannevig, president of the New Jersey concern, makes final adjustment with the United States shipping board. This will require a month, officials of the purchasing company believe.

MAN IS ARRESTED IN DEATH OF WIFE

Police Probe Domestic Affairs of Daniel C. Giles—Will Have Hearing Today

Investigation is being made today by the police of Camden into the domestic affairs of Daniel C. Giles, who was arrested late yesterday in connection with the death of his wife, Mrs. Louisa Giles.

The woman was found dead in the bathroom of the home of her son, Daniel C. Giles, Jr., 128 Laurel street, Woodlynne, N. J., with two bullet wounds in her neck. Daniel C. Giles, her husband, according to the police, was sitting on the edge of the bathtub with a smoking revolver in his hand.

Efforts of the police to obtain a definite explanation of the affair from Giles so far have been unsuccessful. He will have a hearing today before Recorder Stockhouse, of Camden.

The body of Mrs. Giles was found by her son, Layton, nineteen years old, who told the police that his father resisted when he attempted to take the revolver from him. The police believe that Giles intended to kill himself, Mrs. Giles, with Layton, who lives at Pittman, N. J., were visiting Daniel C. Giles, Jr., and had been at the latter's home several days.

Many conflicting statements have been made by the older Giles, according to the police. During the night he was moody. He first showed defiance of the police, later he talked to himself and in times refused to answer questions.

Layton Giles told the police his father was evidently suffering from a severe mental strain and had been acting strangely of late.

MOTHER WILL SCAN ADA HUFF SUITORS

Daughter, in Prison, Has Already Received Two Offers of Marriage

"Ada will make no hasty marriages. We will know all about the man first. I'm her mother and she is going to profit by my experience."

Mrs. Helen Kell, who yesterday found her long-lost daughter under intensely dramatic circumstances in Moyamensing Prison, where she is held as "Ada Huff" on the charge of having carried off ten-months-old Genevieve Leonard, made it plain this morning that the two proposals of marriage the young woman has received will be refused.

Ada Huff, nineteen years old, has received two proposals of marriage. One was sent direct to her at the prison, the other to her in care of Detective Frank Hodge, who arrested her at Stroudsburg, Pa., and brought her to Philadelphia.

"My own unhappy experience," said the girl's mother today, "will be a protection for Ada. I have struggled along these dozen years not knowing where my husband was. I am going to look after Ada's welfare."

The mother talked while she worked in her temporary home at 1008 Division street, Camden, where she is employed as housekeeper for Walter S. Layton, a Pennsylvania Railroad engineer, and his two children. Mrs. Kell has her other child, Ernest, thirteen years old, with her. She is a small, middle-aged woman, energetic and hardworking. She busied herself dusting while she talked.

"I am not going to desert Ada now. I am going to do everything I can for her. I am a poor woman, but I have mother love enough to make me willing to sacrifice anything for my child."

"I am happy, very, very happy now that I have found my child. It has been hard all these years, knowing that I had a little girl somewhere who was growing up and I could not find her, could not give her the love and advice that a daughter needs. For twelve years I have tried to find her. It was always hopeless."

"And now that I have found her you may be sure that no man is going to come along and marry her unless I know everything about him. You may be sure of that."
